LITERATURE REVIEW:

Ilhaamie Abdul Ghani Azmi; 2009) investigated the relationship between the service quality and compensation because in Malaysia country there were many complains by the public sector due to the delay of service. He suggested that service quality is not being delivered as anticipated by customers. So when compensation system being offered in the public sector over the System Saraan Malaysia (SSM), which focuses to generate competent workers who are responsive to customer's demands by given that quality services, one would expect that there would be an enhancement in the general quality of the services rendered by the company.
